

LOVE'S TWILIGHT ZONE

© SOCAN Glenn Zaretski

- 1) You know that love is of two types and neither calls the other friend.
They'll never lie together though some will try and pretend.
Where one freely roams the other dare not go.
And drifting in between, LOVE'S TWILIGHT ZONE.

- 2) You see the love that's of the daylight is as pure and warm as the sun's own rays.
The love that's of the night time, best kept that way.
But neither one can claim you for its own.
You're drifting in between LOVE'S TWILIGHT ZONE.

CHORUS: Twilight between the night and day.
Where you suspend the rules and living shadows play.
Caught between strange feelings I don't know.
Drowning in your strange LOVE'S TWILIGHT ZONE.
Twilight.

- 3) How cold your touch yet how warm it makes me feel.
How strange it seems when the unreal becomes real.
Its icy magic burns my loins, chills my bones.
And pulls me into the sphere of LOVE'S TWILIGHT ZONE.

CHORUS:

- 4) Holding on to a threadbare reality.
Losing touch just floating endlessly.
Caught in your misty ephemeral home.
Drowning in between LOVE'S TWILIGHT ZONE.

Lovers of the night time, best kept that way.